LOCAL MATTERS.

The Mayor's Summary of Evidence in Relation to the Ninth Massachusetts Regiment.

The Commission of Inquiry having made their report to the Massachusetts authori-ties in relation to the conduct of the Ninth Massachusetts regiment on its visit to Rich-misconduct of the Ninth Massachusetts regiment af Richmond, Va., on the 17th of October, 1881, I beg to submit the followglow that it is within the reach of all, and it will ing statement, as an act of justice to ail concerned :

Some of the members of this regiment Some of the members of this regiment were upon our streets in an intoxicated condition, and carried their sports to undignified excess. Others were guilty of grave misconduct in addressing and approaching ladies on the public streets in a proaching ladies on the public streets in a manner which was at least rude and unremanner w streets with women of low character.

The number thus liable to censure were streets with women of low character.

The number thus liable to censure were but a small portion of the regiment, whose conduct should not be charged upon the whole companyl a very large majority of the Board believe, in view of the imwhole command, a very large majority of whom did not leave the depot, but behaved with entire propriety. Indeed, many of those who did come on the streets deported themselves with dignity and gentility. In no manner did blame seem to attach to the officers, who tried to restrain any excesses of the men, and to exercise disci-pline and to punish misconduct with promptness and vigor.

As to various statements published in sundry papers, I feel constrained to say that many of them have done injustice by charging the offences committed as if done by the regiment, and by erroneous state-ments of what did occur. To some of these I will refer as they occur to my mind.

First. It has been stated that 100 of the command were arrested and put in cells in our station-houses, and that on my order jocular, good-natured remarks, which vio-lated proper politeness, but were not in-sulting, made to some of the female scho-character and value.

Fifth. No official communication was sent by our city authorities to General Hancock or any one clse as to the conduct of this regiment.

Sixth. In my opinion, after the closest inquiry, I think it is utterly untrue that the train containing this regiment was stoned in returning through this city, or that at any time the command was in any way mistreated in this city. The men who misbehaved to ladies awakened just such indignation here as would have been felt gentlemen of any section at such con-the small fragment who imisbehaved, but protest against the injustice done in charging upon the whole regiment (a vast majority of whom behaved with entire propriety) the indecorous sports or indecencies not yet completed.

RECEPTION.

From the church the bridal party drove to Mrs. Branch's residence, corner of Franklin and First streets. There a grand reception was held and a gay and goodly company assembled. The parlors and supper-room were becomingly decorated—the marriage-bell, the True Lovers' knot, and the four-leafed clover (now seen at all Fourth streets, is entirely without founda-fashionable weddings) being most promition. An officer of this fourd made a per-
